ESG-Integration	Yes Bottom-up stock selection incorporates sustainability criteria in addition to classic fundamental data. The sustainability approach is based on a combination of economic, social and ecological aspects. In-depth fundamental internal research that goes beyond the usual standards (especially in the area of small caps*) and continuous active engagement with companies are at the focus of the approach. "Smaller companies are often unable to comply with sustainability communication due to limited capacities, so small and mid-cap companies often have a poor ESG rating - despite sustainable business models. However, it is often precisely such companies that offer innovative solutions to global challenges and at the same time have attractive growth rates.

Further information on the sustainability approach	At Berenberg Wealth and Asset Management (WAM), we consider ESG aspects as one of the key factors in our investment decision making. We recognize that the integration of ESG helps our portfolio management to adequately analyse risk and return. To minimize certain risks arising from controversial business areas or problematic business practices, we use ESG exclusion criteria. We also place a strong focus on positive factors that promote and sustain earnings growth, such as good corporate governance. In addition to our own research, we use external ESG data to understand the sustainability profile of companies and issuers. We strive to identify material factors that are critical to improving long-term returns and the sustainability profile as part of a comprehensive ESG investment process. Internally, we discuss ESG issues openly, building on our culture of supportive collaboration among all teams. This open dialogue among our investment and ESG professionals allows us to integrate their industry experience and knowledge into our ESG approach and to develop and strengthen it continuously further. Dialogues with companies are an important pillar for us in order to gain a better understanding of ESG capabilities and to communicate our views. Participation in sector and investor initiatives is important for us in order to hold exchanges with other investors and companies, to engage jointly "with one voice" and, ultimately, to support positive change. Link to sustainability approach
